The suit is the outcome of a letter recently written by Mrs. Volaw to Justice Stafford of the district court, during the trial of Dr. Lee's suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Jennie B. Cole. What Doctor Charges Dr. Lee charged that Mrs. Volaw "maliciously, wickedly, falsely, and fraudulently and intending to injure the plaintiff in his good name and reputation, and for the purpose of defaming him, a fair and impartial trial, by an unbiased and unprejudiced judge, and to poison and prejudice the mind of Justice Stafford," wrote a letter to the judge which was a false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel, containing among other words the following: "She (meaning Mrs. Cole) had been terribly wronged by Dr. Cole. HARDING CONFERS WITH FINANCIERS ON FOREIGN LOANS

BUSINESS MEN HAVE DINNER AT WHITE HOUSE.

TO REVIVE TRADE

Administration's Policy of Promoting Exportation Is Discussed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington.—The administration's policy of promoting exportation as a means toward restoration of normal business conditions was discussed at a White House dinner Wednesday night attended by Secretaries Mellon and Hoover, J. P. Morgan, J. D. Rockefeller, and a number of other prominent financiers. President Harding was said to have talked over the whole subject with his guests. The dinner was quickly arranged and it was made public only Thursday.

It was understood that while no hard fast program was decided upon, that the discussion was devoted to the problem of reviving trade and that the administration officials that one of the best remedial measures available would be active cooperation between the government and business for revival of export trade.

Financial Aid For Europe

It was also indicated that the administration policy would turn toward some sort of aid to the financial situation in Europe as a part of the effort for general world stability.

The dinner is expected to be the last of a series of such dinners in the near future between the president and other financial leaders.

Others attending the dinner were James A. Alexander, of the National Bank of Commerce, and Charles A. Sabin, of the Guaranty Trust company, New York; Governor Benjamin Strong, New York; Federal Reserve bank; C. B. Mitchell, National City bank; and J. D. Rockefeller, of the Bankers Trust company, New York; and H. C. McMillan, Union Trust company, Pittsburgh.

It is understood that one of the president's chief purposes in calling the financiers into conference was to discuss the contemplated loan of American private capital to foreign governments and the resumption of normal industrial conditions at home and in the American export trades.

Mr. Harding is said to have laid before his guests an outline of the policy of the administration to cooperate for the relief of economic conditions while the bankers are said to have replied with expressions of willingness to work in close conjunction with the administration.

Need Capital to Buy

Most of those present are understood to have argued emphatically that the surest way to promote export trade would be by helping actively in the rehabilitation of Europe. It is said to have been suggested that American products could be sold in many parts of the old world only if American capital were invested abroad to enable the purchase of goods to pay.

The problem of promoting American investment abroad, particularly in re-investment in Europe, is said to have been brought forward to the front and was a means discussed.

Mr. Harding had an exchange of views with Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, and the assumption was that he was consulted on the same general subject.

Mr. Schwab is understood to have discussed with the president the problem of rehabilitating the American merchant marine, and it was suggested that the American government should be taken quickly if the large tonnage constructed during the war is to be kept under the American flag.

Details showing the relative cost of ship operation under the American and foreign flags were laid before the president and Mr. Schwab is said to have made several suggestions of methods by which the cost of American ships might be reduced through government cooperation.

Farmers Urged to Stick Behind Resolution for Price Inquiry by Congress

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington.—C. S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' union, has appealed to the farmers of the country to stick behind the congressional resolution providing for the appointment of a congressional commission to investigate the agricultural situation.

"With the creation of this commission," he says, "the farmers have reason to believe some of their most pressing problems will be solved. They will at least know for an accurate source the men and institutions who are collecting ruinous toll from them and equally ruinous toll from their final customers."

"If the commission is in earnest you will be able to lay your finger on the persons and institutions which have long been collecting pay justly yours."

If the work of the commission is thorough you will know why you have been discriminated against by farmers and why you have been unable either to buy or sell, to obtain cash or credit, when if you may possess livestock, grain, cotton, and other commodities in abundance.

WAR MATERIALS OF U. S. MAKE FOUND IN SINN FEIN RAIDS

ASK THAT STRONG REPRESENTATIONS BE MADE TO U. S.

URGE SYSTEM FOR TEACHING ALIENS

Majority Live in U. S. 10 Years or More Before Seeking Citizenship.

Glaring need of more organized work to aid and help citizenship work was voiced during the naturalization hearings before Judge George Grimm and George Macleay, representing the naturalization service of the government, in the Rock county court on Thursday.

The applicants did not lack the knowledge to pass the citizenship tests. They were well posted on governmental affairs and duties of citizenship.

The significant fact is that the majority of aliens lived in the United States as long as 10 years without making an attempt to obtain citizenship. There is one case of a resident in Jefferson where a man 73 years of age applied for papers. He had lived more than 60 years in the United States without taking out first papers.

Wait Long For Papers. Nearly every applicant who appeared before Judge Grimm has neglected for 10 or more years to take an active interest in citizenship. They were never encouraged to take out first papers or were shown the waste and value of citizenship. Rather than the continued residing in the United States with a status of being aliens, content to enjoy the liberties of this country, without being a real part of the government of citizens.

There were more than 100 aliens of German and Austrian parentage and birth who obtained their papers as the result of the hearings in Janesville. The granting of citizenship to these people was stopped during the period of the war, the government making objections on the grounds they were alien enemies.

One person was refused during the morning session because he had claimed exemption from military service during the war. One applicant was refused on the same claim during the afternoon session. There were 214 admitted in Jefferson in two days, a tedious work for the court and federal examiner.

Only a few cases were continued in Jefferson or in Janesville. The real reason why the majority of these people neglected to obtain citizenship papers when they were first in this country is because they thought they were citizens until the war explained both Judge Grimm and Examiner Macleay.

When the war came and they were required to register for the draft along with strict rulings on the matter of citizenship—hundreds found out that they were not citizens. They could not obtain papers then and now they are all coming in.

It remains a question, however, that the government should claim for them in schools or by the citizens to make more clear the duty of each alien to become a citizen if he is going to remain in this country.

Had to Show Loyalty. All applicants Thursday were carefully questioned regarding their loyalty during the war. They had to show evidence that they supported the government in the allied cause.

In one instance a Janesville resident, whose family is still in Germany, was granted papers. His family went to Germany for a visit just before the declaration of war between Germany and France. They had to remain in Germany during the period of hostilities and an attempt is now being made by the husband to have them return to Wisconsin.

The court house was crowded all during the day by the applicants and the witnesses necessary to obtain final papers.

STATE HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Milwaukee—Doctors should be convinced to sign a diagnosis before performing an operation, Dr. F. L. Smith, representing the American College of Surgeons, told the Wisconsin Hospital Association in convention here today.

The convention also was addressed by Dr. A. R. Warner, secretary, American Hospital Association; Dr. G. E. Ide, Milwaukee, and Dr. Hoyt E. Deartholt. All the officers of the association were re-elected.

The Rev. H. L. Fritschel, president of the association, in his report said that there are 125 hospitals in Wisconsin with 7,570 beds. Twenty-six counties in Wisconsin have no hospitals.

East Chicago—The body of an unidentified man was found wedged in the basement window of a small store here Thursday. There were no signs of violence. Police believe the man was stricken by a heart disease while crawling through the window to rob the store.

MILLERAND PRESENTS VASE TO K. OF C.

Dr. Marcel Knecht, French high commissioner, on the right, presenting the huge vase in the name of the French president to Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, international head of the K. of C.

President Millerand of France presented this Sevres vase, the largest in the United States, to the Knights of Columbus, to commemorate the K. of C. pilgrimage to France last year. At that time the knights presented a statue of Lafayette to Metz. The vase is five feet high, six feet six inches in circumference and weighs 150 pounds. It is valued at $5,000 and is one of the most unique pieces of bric-a-brac in America. Dr. Knecht made the presentation.

The Heavens in June

About the 26th of this month the earth is threatened with a collision with a comet known to astronomers as about a hundred years is the other party, and its name is the Winnecke (1865 II) or Pons-Winnecke comet. It so happens that on or about the above date the earth and the comet are going to be very close to each other in space, if not in actual physical contact. It is a little too early at the time of writing to forecast more closely the conditions, because the effect of the earth's gravitation can not as yet be exactly calculated, owing to our ignorance of the physical data of the comet. However, it seems sure that we shall be about 1,000,000 miles at least from the head of the comet; perhaps we shall pass through the tail, if it has one.

Unfortunately this comet is not bright enough to make a grand display in the heavens and will be visible in the telescope only. But the naked eye observer will probably be treated to a fine shower of meteors when the earth crosses the path of the flying comet.

Comets in General. In order that the reader may understand the effect of a comet upon the earth or collision between the earth and a comet, we may mention a few facts about this class of celestial objects. They are bodies which pass around the sun in orbits of different sizes, crossing many of the planetary orbits.

At one time it was believed that comets were of two kinds, those that stay with the sun and those that come into the solar system temporarily and then pass on out into space to visit other stars. In the first class were those whose orbits were known to be within the solar system and those which, though they went out beyond Neptune, returned every so often, or as the astronomer says, periodically. But it is now the more accepted belief that even those which have not been observed on a return trip are merely extremely long-period comets which will visit us again some day. So that all comets may be looked upon as bona-fide members of the solar system.

The appearance of a comet is fairly known to the Janesville association, conducted by the Janesville association, closed a successful three day series of meetings under the direction of Rev. C. A. Boyd, dean of religious education of Wisconsin.

Altogether more than 100 pastors, teachers and others attended the sessions, including Baptists from Beloit, Darien, Clinton, Albany, Janesville, Evansville, Union and other churches. Nearly every pastor of a Baptist church in Rock and Walworth counties attended as well as Sunday school teachers.

A splendid course of instruction in religious education and teaching methods was carried out under the direction of a faculty, including some of the greatest Baptist leaders in the west.

Among those who attended the institute from out of town were: Rev. L. V. Bell, of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Beloit; Rev. and Mrs. Christian, Brodhead; Rev. Mr. Stevens, Mrs. V. Gilles, Mrs. K. W. Shipman and Miss Edyth Hynes, Evansville; and Dr. D. W. Hulbert, Milwaukee.

The spectroscopic study of the comets to determine the elements contained does not lead to conclusive results. It seems to show the presence of hydrocarbon vapors and of the extremely poisonous gas, cyanogen, in the tails. It was thought that if the earth passed through a comet's tail containing cyanogen, effects of this might be found in the atmosphere and evil results follow. But the old earth passed through a comet's tail only ten years ago and no such effect at all could be noticed. In fact, some later work makes it extremely doubtful if the spectrum ascribed to cyanogen is really produced by it. Surely, one need not fear death from poisoning as a result of the visit of Pons-Winnecke; it is not a Borgia.

If the earth should ever hit a fair-

BYRAM PRAISES RAIL EMPLOYEES

President of Milwaukee Road Is Examined by Senate Committee.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington—Railroads of the United States are being operated efficiently, H. E. Byram, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, said Thursday in his examination before the senate interstate commerce committee which is inquiring into the transportation situation. He praised the work of the employees who are endeavoring to aid the carriers in obtaining better results.

"It is to be regretted," Mr. Byram said, "that the attitude of some of those who speak for railroad employees of the country does not tend to promote good service. Efforts have apparently been made to develop a belief on the part of the public as well as railroad employees, that the responsible officers of the railroads were not operating them efficiently and economically. It is greatly to the credit of the rank and file of employees of the railroads of the country that they have not been misled by these false doctrines as is shown by the general willingness to co-operate with the management of the railroads. Officers and employees of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company for several years and particularly of late have been carrying out the principle of co-operation and study mutually in finding and practicing economies and improved methods. Committees have been formed of officers and employees on every division to study the details of operation for the purpose of eliminating waste and generally promoting efficiency and the various companies have assumed to save fuel and supplies and to avoid wasteful practices have been supported by the employees.

Volume of business on the C. M. & St. P., Mr. Byram said, was half what it was a year ago, the road "not earning its expenses and taxes." Electrification along the roads' western lines had accomplished "very great economies," he said.

"Will the railroad labor board's cut of 15 per cent help you out?" asked Senator Wolcott, democrat, Delaware.

"It will not be sufficient to allow us to meet charges on the present traffic basis," Mr. Byram said.

'THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE'

By Marion Rubincam

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Ruth O'Neil and Myra Weed have been chums for many years and plan when they are 18 to go to the city together. Myra is very ambitious and enjoys herself and Ruth to take a business course. Ruth knows she must support her family, and the little town she lives in offers no opportunity.

But the little money necessary to send her to the city must be used for her father, who is ill, and Ruth has to sacrifice her trip and her chance to study. Myra, however, Tim Thurgood, a nice boy in the village, asks Ruth to marry him, but though she loves him very much she refuses because neither has any money.

Tim goes to the city to make his fortune, and while there falls in love with Myra. Ruth is heartbroken when she hears of their engagement, and feels that not only her chance to learn and work but her chance to be happy has gone. Then her Aunt Sarah visits them and takes Ruth to the city with her. The girl must now watch the happiness of her two friends, while she stands aside neglected.

CHAPTER XLIII

A NEW FRIEND

When Ruth pulled herself away from Tim's embrace and rushed up the stairs, he stood for a moment looking after her through the glass of the door. He had seen her so often since she had come to the city, and he walked slowly, not thinking where he was going.

He did love Ruth. There was no doubt about that. It was an irresistible impulse that made him suddenly gather her into his arms and try to comfort her. And Ruth loved him. It was in her eyes. It was on her lips—when she yielded for the moment to his kiss.

But Myra loved him also, and she loved her! And Tim was a little pleased that two such attractive girls should care for him, in spite of his small income. He had never been so popular. He had a feeling that he had not played fair to Ruth. He should have broken it to her gently as, during the winter, his affection for Myra grew.

He was not a very happy young man. But Tim had the very pleasant ability of casting off any thought that worried him, so he went out with girls and his mind went on down to his own lockings.

And he never slept more soundly than he did that night.

But that could not be said of the high-strung girl whom he had left. Ruth closed the door of her room and stood leaning against it, breathless, frightened, glad, angry, and broken.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR JOE:

I adapted your suggestion today and gave the baby a pencil and paper to give his artistic desires, if any, a chance to break out. But the only desire I could get out of him, either artistic or otherwise, was a desire to eat the pencil, which of course I wouldn't let him do, even for Art's sake. Do you suppose his desire to eat the pencil was a symbol that he's going to be one of these radical artists you read so much about? I hope he don't grow up to be a Cubist or anything like that. But I don't think it's very likely, with both my family and yours conservative Methodists as far back as we can remember.

And by the way Joe you do my side of the family a great wrong when you claim that it never showed any artistic ability and that if the baby makes up his mind to inherit some he'll have to pick it from your side of the family. As a well known artist of fact Joe a direct first cousin of mine is a well known artist in Buffalo. He designs labels for a canning factory, and every time they put up a new kind of vegetable my cousin has to design a new label, and I know from personal experience that the vegetables he designs on the labels are better than the ones inside the cans, so that will give you a dim idea as to his artistic ability.

I see by the papers that Caruso is almost entirely well again and likely to start to convalesce any day now. That must be a great relief to the people with phonographs who have some of his most expensive records, because now they can play them and get their money's worth in a cheerful mood without feeling any necessity of looking solemn at the time.

Love from baby and ditto from self,

Tessie.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going with a young man who is as perfect as a man can be with the exception of one thing, and that is he fails to tip his hat to the ladies.

He is very courteous in every other respect and I cannot see why he should be lacking in this. I am positive he knows the rule in regard to tipping the hat.

Politeness is a good deal in my eyes and I would like to remedy this. Politeness is attractive, but after all it is meaningless unless it is accompanied by kindness of heart. The "diamond in the rough" can bring more happiness than the most polished gem.

English Baby Pilgrims Find Homes in U. S.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York.—Plymouth Rock history repeated itself Monday with some variations, when 15 English baby pilgrims—each less than a year old—landed here upon an American ship, bound for the United States.

These infant adventurers are not suffering from the aftermath of a storm-tossed voyage, for they have been tenderly swaddled in cabins of the luxurious steamship Aquitania by nurses who will care for them until they are adopted in sumptuous homes of New York society.

Through the influence of the National Adoption Society of England and the American committee of that organization, these foundlings, within a few years will be listed in the social register, instead of fighting an up-hill battle in London slums.

A number of governmental immigration regulations had to be abrogated so that you can make life easier for him.

SAWDUST KILLS OFF GRASSHOPPERS

Madison.—Discovery that sawdust was a palatable grasshopper food by the College of Agriculture, saved $100,000 to the farmers of Door county last year, a statement on the floor of the assembly in support of the bill calling for establishment of a branch experiment station brought out. Previously the farmers had to feed the pests poisoned bran to get rid of them. Sawdust worked fully as well, with the result that the grasshoppers were killed off, and the crops allowed to grow without an expensive outlay, and waste of good food. Senators passed the appropriation measure which was engrossed by the assembly.

To meet this difficulty, Dr. Olson suggests that every health officer measure of his own performance of duty by the score card so widely used in determining the sanitary conditions of dairies, restaurants and the like. Such a use would at once provide a mirror in which he could view himself, and it used by the state authorities would record the efficiency of the various local officers, he suggests.

GAZETTE WANT ADS.

POINT THE WAY TO CASH

All Sold Out!

Here is a chance for someone to make some money. Right now bulbs, plants and seeds are very much in demand.

FOR SALE—Early and late cabbage plants, early tomato plants, also cut tulips. Call H. S. Sewell, Rte. 1, Milwaukee Ave. R. C. phone 409 Red.

Mr. Sewell ordered the above ad to run in the Gazette six times. However, it only ran three or four times when he ordered it out as he had sold all of the bulbs and other plants offered.

"I sold about 10,000 of each kind," he said.

This little instance is to call attention to the fact that people are buying things for the garden. If you have any of the mentioned articles for sale it is time to advertise them. Call 77 on your phone.

For just a few cents these little result getters will carry your message into nearly 10,000 homes and bring back inquiries that will put cash in your pocket. They will find the people who want the thing you have to offer.

THE GAZETTE'S 9,823 subscribers represent practically 50,000 readers—people who live in Janesville or the surrounding country.

There is no way that you can reach them any EASIER or QUICKER than through GAZETTE WANT ADS.

USE THEM TODAY AND LEARN THEIR VALUE

Another Convert

One young man in Janesville has just become a Classified user. Here's why. He lost a ten dollar bill Thursday afternoon. It was too late for him to get an ad in Thursday's paper. But he ran one in Friday. Also the party who found the money, ran an ad.

Classified did its duty, it brought two unknown people together. The young man had his money in less than one hour after the paper was off the press. This is another example what Want Ads in the Gazette will do if you will give them the chance.

She Found Out

A woman on Bluff street advertised a davenport and a dress form for sale. When asked the results of the ad she said that both the articles were sold after the first insertion and that she had so many inquiries that she could not count them all.

Classified ads sell things. What have you to sell?

Phone your ad. 77 either phone.

Quick Service

A house on Linn street was vacated on Friday. Saturday the owner inserted a classified ad in the Gazette. Wednesday morning there was another family living in the house. The owner lost only four days' rent.

For the person who has a house, flat or rooms to rent classified ads are indispensable. Small cost and quick results. Call 77 either phone and let the girl take your ad.

He's Going to Be a Whistler

You can always get the thing you want if you advertise for it. This ad ran Monday and Tuesday:

"Is there anyone in Janesville who can teach whistling?" Address Box 1936 Gazette.

Yes, we know it is an unusual thing to want, but it brought a number of replies and the man who ran the ad is more than satisfied with the results.

No matter how unusual your want may seem, a Classified Ad in The Gazette will help you get it.

Let us show you. Call 77 either phone.

This Ford Was Sold In a Hurry

Sell your Ford through a Classified Ad. the following ad:

FOR SALE—My Ford touring car in A-1 condition. $200. Call or telephone any forenoon. F. J. Hinterschied.

brought a number of replies, 8 being received after the car was already sold. The ad was ordered for three times but sold the car after one insertion.

Call 77 either phone. Take the cheapest and surest way to sell your car.

Stove for $12

FOR SALE: Eclipse four-burner gas stove in good condition. Good baker. Must be sold today. Price $12. Call at 709 N. Garfield or R. C. phone Red 1904.

This classified ad brought number of replies and sold the stove the first day the ad was inserted. Perhaps you have a stove to sell or some other article. Why not use the classifieds and get the same results? There is no better or cheaper way of turning saleable articles into ready cash than by using the Classified Columns.

CONGRESS FACES SEVERAL MIX-UPS

Reapportionment of the State Will Throw Several Together.

Madison—Reapportionment of the 11 congressional districts in Wisconsin, involving changes in each of those with over 100,000 inhabitants, some of the present state representatives at Washington, will in all likelihood be tackled by the present redistricting committee, according to personal expression of members.

Individual members of the committee and members of both houses have been devising congressional reapportionments in the belief that the present legislature will dispose of the problem. Interest has been marked in the congressional situation since it was learned that congress did not intend to give Wisconsin a new representative.

Changes in population have been greatest in the fourth and fifth districts, which take in Milwaukee and Racine, Rock, Walworth, Kaukauna, Dodge, and Waubesa. In the first district, increase has brought the total from 212,008 in 1910 to 263,334 in 1920, while the fourth has increased from 214,887 to 262,546 and the fifth from 218,887 to 275,602.

Proposed congressional reapportionments already submitted by members all vary in the results. They indicate that much difficulty will be encountered in trying to agree on the changes necessary.

Classen in Trouble—One suggested plan places Congressman Volpert of the second district with Congressman Lampert of the sixth, and another places Lampert and Classen of the ninth district with one another. Congressman Nelson of the third district and Beck of the seventh are grouped by another proposal which would require elimination of one.

Still further of the suggested reapportionments brought forward would place Beck of the seventh with Fear of the tenth, while Fear of the tenth and A. R. Nelson of the eleventh would be brought together. Another suggestion accepted will eliminate either Browne of the eighth or Classen of the ninth, while the most drastic proposal brings Lampert of the sixth, Browne of the eighth and Classen of the ninth into the same district, causing two of them to lose their positions.

The most difficulty will be encountered in trying to reapportion congressional districts because of politics involved.

Orchards Are Again Ready for Spraying

Wisconsin orchards are ready for the second foliage spray right now. Apple scab and codling moth, responsible for most blemished and spoiled apples, can be controlled if the series of four foliage sprays are applied, according to Dr. Clifford, specialist in horticulture, who is warning county agents and orchardists that the second application is now due.

"Indications point to another good apple crop," says Dr. Clifford, and a reasonable amount of care will insure a good grade of apples and other fruit. Orchardists in the state are becoming determined to increase their reputation as growers of a good product, because the market is demanding sprayed and clean fruit. They realize also that blemished apples are sold at a lower price than the clean ones, where soil and climate are so well adapted to orcharding, they have a fine opportunity to increase the outlook for fruit growing in the state.

"The spray that should now be used is applied as soon as most of the petals have fallen and before the cup of calyx closes. One and one-fourth gallons of lime sulphur and one and a fourth pounds of powdered lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water will make the spray that controls codling moth, which causes the apple scab, plum curculion that stings the fruit, and other insects, except scale and aphid or plant lice. If the lice are present at this time add Black Leaf Forty which is a nicotine compound that can be bought as your dealer. Apples, plums, cherries and currants should be included in this spray. The fine sulphur solution sells for about 20 cents a gallon in 50 gallon lots, and the arsenate of lead at 30 cents a pound in 50 pound lots. There are a number of brands available. The idea is to do the work thoroughly at the right time, with the right material, and with a good outfit.

NECESSITY BOWS BEFORE SENTIMENT

Honolulu.—Even military necessity bows before sentiment. This was exemplified here recently when a military road under construction back of Schofield barracks, 25 miles from Honolulu, took a detour to avoid an ancient Hawaiian landmark. The road was being constructed through the Koko pass of the Waialeale range when it came to an ancient Hawaiian sacrificial stone which balances on the almost knife-like edge of the pass. The stone was in the way of the engineers, but under orders from Major General Charles G. Morton, in command of the Hawaiian department of the army, the route was altered to pass the sacrificial rock and leave the remainder of ancient days intact.

ALASKA HAS LARGE HERDS OF REINDEER

Seattle—Alaska's reindeer herds will in 10 years double those of Norway, Sweden and Finland combined, according to Carl J. Lomen, Nome, Alaska, pioneer in the reindeer industry in the territory, who has returned from Washington, D. C., on his way north after seeking an increase in the annual appropriation for the biological survey of Alaska.

Mr. Lomen submitted figures, while at Washington, showing that there were 200,000 square miles of territory in Alaska, suitable for the grazing of reindeer and said there were nearly a quarter of a million of the animals already in the territory. He predicted that the reindeer meat industry in the north would eventually reach a total of $50,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year. Six thousand reindeer carcasses were shipped from Nome to Seattle last year. They average 150 pounds dressed, Mr. Lomen said.
